

Tanks a million

There comes a time in every activist group's development when it realises there's something missing. That's the conclusion Space Hijackers, a group of anti-multinational activists, has come to in the run up to its plans to demonstrate at the DSEi arms fair which takes place at ExCeL in September. The Hijackers have decided they need a tank, with which they can storm, and hopefully disrupt, the event. Clever – except that they've no money to pay for one, which is where you come in. Willing contributors, or anyone with a spare Russian T-72, should go to www.spacehijackers.org/tank.
